

Conference Announcement German-Dutch Colloquium

The Hannover University of Music, Drama and Media is happy to announce the German-Dutch Colloquium on Research in Arts Education to be held January 20 and 21, 2022. This year's theme will be "multiculturalism in music and drama education", which is an important topic in music education as well as in drama education but may have different implications in both countries due to differing social structures and research traditions. We have received an array of interesting and varied abstracts and are looking forward to a stimulating colloquium.

Due to the current situation, we have decided that the colloquium will be taking place virtually. If you are interested in attending, please register by sending an email to Prof Andreas Lehmann-Wermser (Andreas.lehmann-wermser@hmtm-hannover.de) and Dr Eva Schurig (eva.schurig@hmtm-hannover.de). We are pleased to announce that we have received funding from the BMBF and the Rat für kulturelle Bildung e.V. This enables us to organise this conference without charging any registration fees. The registration deadline will be the 16th of January 2022.

Once you have registered you will receive information on access and the programme.
